

The Tiny Girl and Tiny Boy Poems

For some reason sometimes the focus of cabin cleanup poems strays from suitable themes (such as, oh let's say, cleaning up the cabin) to such concepts as the alleged superiority of one cabin over all the others or perhaps that of one cabin area over the other.

N--- ---- was a "staff kid" one week during 1997 and decided to make his own contribution to this field of poetic endeavour, a copy of which immediately follows. Someone else, imagining the poetic battle which could have ensued, decided to add his own parody versions, which follow N---'s. In 2001 N---- returned and wrote what is, we can only hope, the final word in this bizarre struggle.

Ian: "They are not going to release the album, because they have decided that the cover is sexist."

Nigel: "Well, so what? What's wrong with being sexy?"

Ian & David: "Sexist!"

...

David: "...but it's all a joke, i'n't? We're making fun o' that sor' o' thing."

-- "This is Spinal Tap" 1982